OUR RESULTS

Madagascar: PARM presented the preliminary results of the value chain risk assessment study

On 5 May 2023, PARM discussed the preliminary results of the Agricultural Value Chain Risk Assessment Study (AVC-RAS) conducted in Madagascar, during a technical workshop held in Antananarivo, that gathered the interministerial technical committee put in place by the Ministry of Agriculture and Livestock (MINAE). The study is based on a holistic assessment of agricultural risks with a value chain approach that focused on maize and peanut, respectively as food and export commodities. Strengthening local capacities in Agricultural Risk Management: PARM and MINAE continue their collaboration

With a view to institutionalizing capacity development on Agricultural Risk Management (ARM) in Madagascar, PARM trained, from 5 to 8 June 2023, 35 trainers (from universities, training centers, farmers' organizations and microfinance institutions) in Antananarivo. The workshop aimed to improve the understanding, assessment and prioritization of agricultural risk and risk management tools by value chain according to the holistic approach of PARM with a gender perspective. The elements of the action plans to be developed by the participants in order to integrate ARM in the universities' curricula and the private sector practices have also been discussed.
